Our Community

Since 2012, The Central Oklahoma Teen Pregnancy Prevention Collaboration (“the Collaboration”) has been hard at work to reduce the teen birth rate in Oklahoma County. Today, the Collaboration includes over 40 organizations and 80 individuals in public private partnership. Together, we are community champions and change agents for adolescent sexual health.

MEET THE TEAM

It takes a community to create change. honestly’s leadership team brings together dedicated staff, leaders, and partners from across Oklahoma County. Together, we share a diverse mix of expertise and a commitment to improving the health and futures of youth.

Thank You For YOUR SUPPORT!

Dear Friends, Partners, and Champions of Youth,

As I write this letter, I'm reflecting on a conversation I had with a parent of an adolescent with Down Syndrome while tabling at a community awareness event. They shared how the locally developed Boundaries and Basics training gave them the confidence and tools to help their teen understand boundaries, hygiene, and essential health lessons as they navigate the journey into adulthood and relationships. "I didn't know where to start with these conversations," they told me, "but now I feel equipped to support my child in ways I never thought possible."

This is exactly why we do this work, and it's exactly what your partnership has made possible. This year marked a pivotal moment for honestly as we launched Forward Together, The Central Oklahoma Teen Pregnancy Prevention Collaboration (the Collaboration) new strategic plan. Your investment enabled us to bring together 51 community champions who gathered to learn about this bold vision for youth sexual health across central Oklahoma.

As we look toward the coming year, your continued partnership will expand our diversity, equity, and inclusion training programs, ensuring equitable and accessible services reach every young person. You're helping us transform our website into a comprehensive community resource featuring expanded guides, relevant data, resources for youth and caregivers, and on-demand trainings for professionals supporting young people on their health journey.

And here's what excites me most: next year marks our 10th anniversary, where we'll celebrate how our collective efforts moved Oklahoma from the 2nd highest teen birth rate to 5th, proof that when we work together, we create lasting change.

The impact is real. Your partnership matters. And there's so much more we can accomplish together.

I invite you to dive deeper into this report to see the full scope of what you've helped make possible. Ready to join us for another year of progress? Complete our Join Our Movement Form and consider becoming a Youth Boost: Monthly Giving Subscriber to sustain this vital work year-round.

Thank you for believing in the power of young people and the power of Collaboration!

With gratitude and determination,

Jessica Kobylnski, MPA
Chief Executive Officer, honestly

SIX CONDITIONS OF SYSTEM CHANGE

The Six Conditions of System Change show how lasting progress happens. By strengthening policies, improving practices, and aligning resources, we build the structural supports young people need. By improving relationships and shifting power dynamics, partners work together more effectively. And by transforming mental models, communities begin to see teen health and well-being as a shared responsibility. Together, these shifts create the environment required to reduce teen births and ensure stronger youth health outcomes.

ANNUAL REPORT DATA POINTS

A statewide poll of 1,000 registered Oklahoma voters, weighted to reflect the state's political and demographic makeup, captures perspectives from small towns to cities and across political and faith backgrounds — all showing strong support for honestly's work:

- An overwhelming 94% of Oklahoma voters agree that reducing teen pregnancy in Oklahoma should be a public health priority.
- Nearly 9 in 10 Oklahoma voters say birth control should be available.
- Over 80% of Oklahomans say teens who are sexually active should be able to get birth control.
- Most voters (82%) support teaching about all forms of birth control in schools, while 89% believe STI prevention education is essential. Additionally, 89% say students should be taught about healthy relationships and consent, reflecting broad consensus on the importance of equipping young people with comprehensive sexual health knowledge. ¹

While there's been progress in achieving better health outcomes for youth, Oklahoma still faces unique challenges.

1. Over the past decade (2014-2024), Oklahoma County's teen birth rate declined by 51%. ²
2. In Oklahoma County, older teens (aged 18-19) make up roughly 3/4ths of teen births. ²
3. Oklahoma regularly ranks in the top ten for the rate of STIs, including syphilis and HIV. ³
4. For the 2024 KIDS COUNT® Data Book, Oklahoma ranked 46th overall for child well-being, 45th in health, and 49th in education. ⁴

Net assets with donor restrictions consist primarily of time-restricted contributions designated for general operating support. Approximately 1% of restricted net assets are subject to project-specific restrictions.

Since 2013, Oklahoma County’s teen birth rate has dropped by 57%, and we’re seeing growing awareness and action around STI prevention and youth mental health.

Pregnant adolescents are at higher risk for depression, suicidal thoughts, and self-harm.

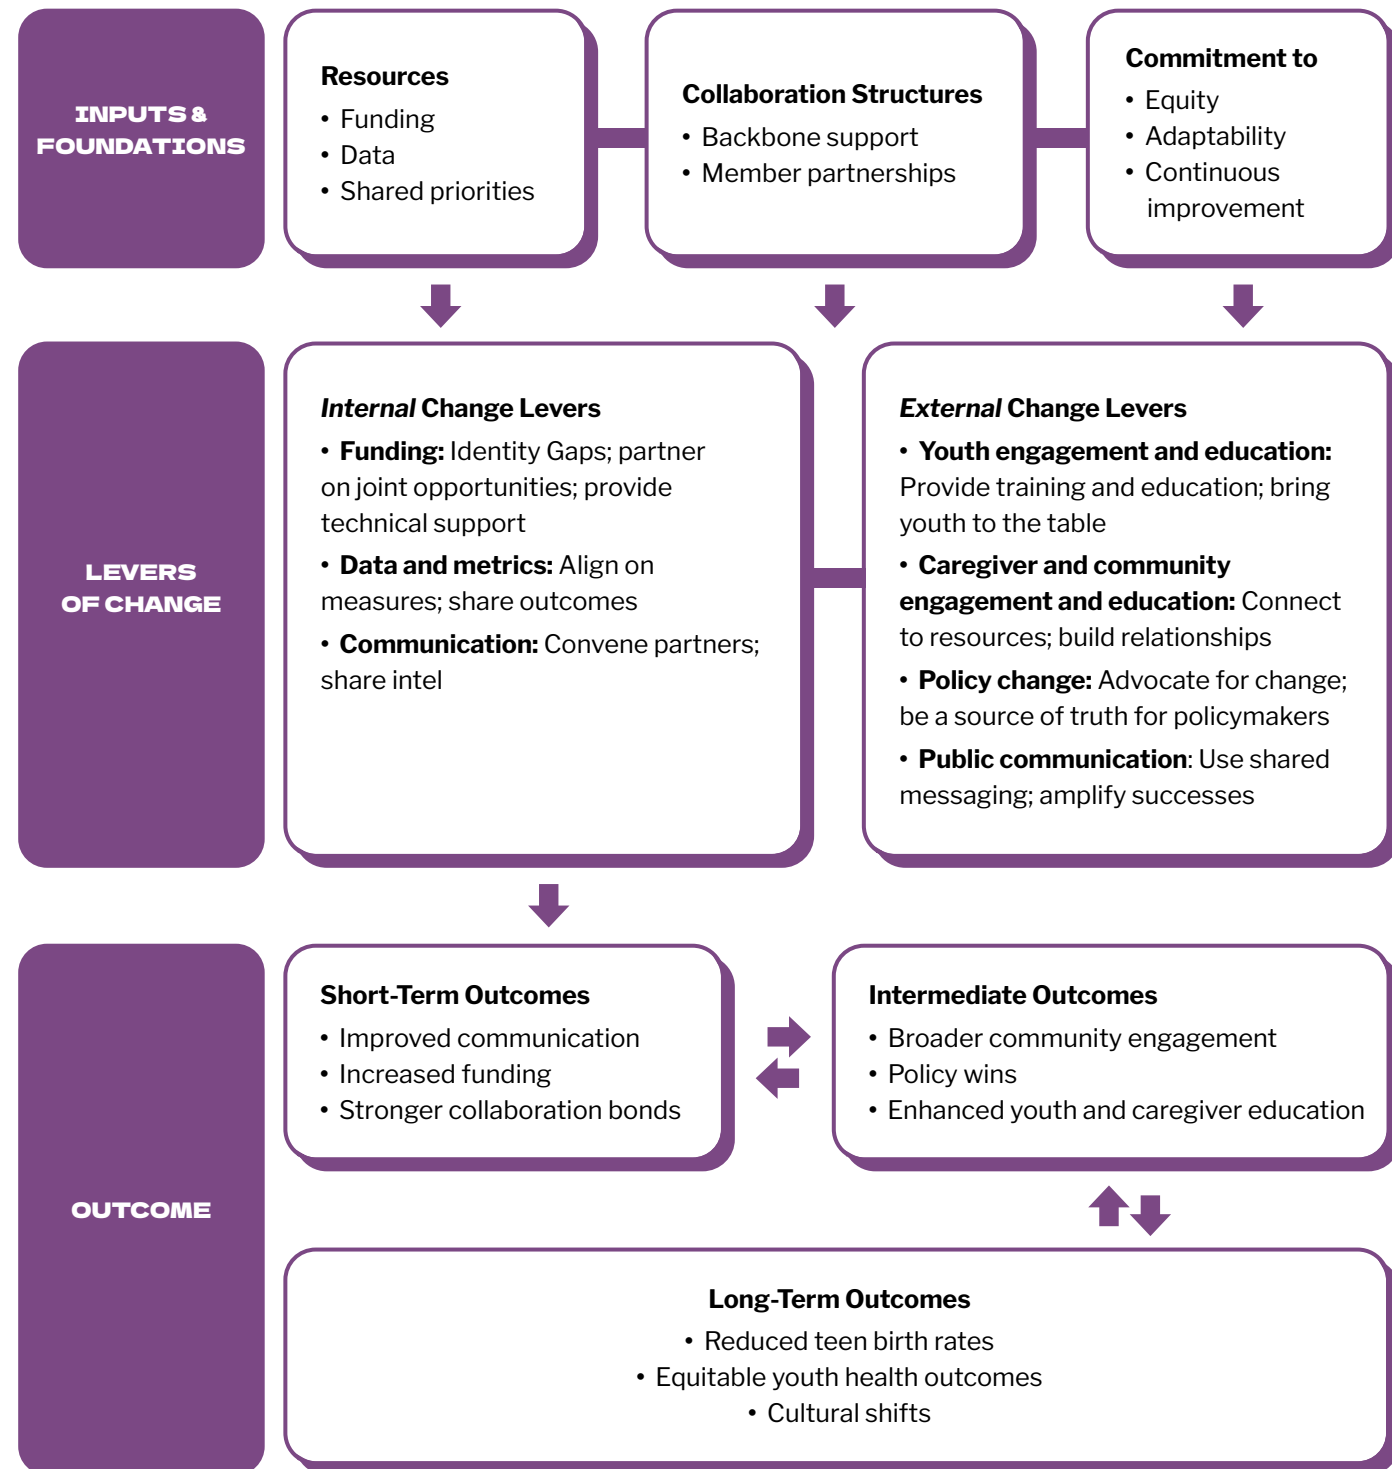

Teen mothers are less likely to finish high school, and their children face greater odds of poverty and poor health outcomes.

Teen births cost Oklahoma millions each year and nearly 3 in 4 teen births are paid for by Medicaid.

THEORY OF CHANGE

The Theory of Change guides our work toward improving sexual health outcomes for youth across Oklahoma. The framework maps how our activities, such as training, resource development, and community partnerships, lead to meaningful shifts in knowledge, attitudes, and systems.

WORDS FROM OUR COMMUNITY

OUTREACH: Engaged Community Members: 1186

What's a favorite memory or meaningful moment you've had through honestly?

“ My favorite movement through [moment with] honestly was when I spoke at the annual luncheon. That was my first time speaking in front of a huge crowd and I have never felt so empowered and heard. It was so impactful in my life and I like to think that I opened eyes to see how our youth needs help and now. — YOUTH

“ Meeting the honestly team to talk to the community during this year's Pride was a lot of fun. It was great to work with everyone in-person, and helping reach out to people directly was a huge learning experience for me. — YOUTH

What motivated you to join honestly's Advisory Council, and why is this mission important to you?

Board Member said: I was motivated to join honestly's Advisory Council because I believe deeply in the power of honest, open, and inclusive conversations to drive change. honestly's mission to create a trusted space for transparent, evidence-based dialogue aligns with my own values of equity, inclusion, and accessibility.

This mission is important to me not only because I want to support reproductive justice efforts for youth, but also because I know that stigma, misinformation, and lack of representation can create real barriers to accessing care and making informed choices. By engaging with honestly's work, I see an opportunity to help amplify underrepresented voices, advance reproductive health equity, and ensure young people are supported with the resources and respect they deserve. I'm also excited to connect with like-minded professionals who share these commitments. Collaborating with others who are equally passionate about reproductive justice and inclusive dialogue is an inspiring way to grow, exchange ideas, and collectively strengthen our impact.

It reminded me how powerful it is when we come together across sectors with a shared vision for change. I especially appreciated the focus on centering family voice and using data in ways that are ethical, inclusive, and community-driven.

There was a lot of engagement and sharing of ideas by participants which I enjoyed, particularly since I do not live in Oklahoma but work for a national organization, so it is really helpful to hear the different perspectives and learn more about what is happening in the state. I was motivated to participate in the Advisory Council to positively impact the health and wellbeing of Oklahoma youth.

What motivated you to join honestly's board, and why does this mission matter to you personally?

“ I aligned with the mission of honestly and saw the important work that was being done. I am honored to now get to be apart of this work to create safe educational spaces for our children and youth of Oklahoma.

— Board Members

No one around me was prepared to have conversations with me about sex and sexual health when I was a child — or even well into my 30s! Serving on the board for honestly is a way to help ensure teens and families get better information and advice than I ever got.

As a mother, it is important to me that Oklahoma's youth has access to accurate, research-backed, and age-appropriate sexual health information. It is easy to feel helpless in the current environment and working with honestly has helped me find hope in what's possible.

Providing a space for youth serving professionals from all areas and levels to come together, share resources, network, and support one another and by working in arenas we are not able to enter to protect the work we do and the youth of Oklahoma.

Collaboration Meeting attendees:

With the Collaboration, honestly is doing more than just raising awareness—it's building infrastructure for sustained community change.

What made you want to get involved with honestly or its programs?

“ I got involved with honestly to be an advocate for high school students. I never understood why reproductive health wasn't talked about when it is such a key component in our lives. I also saw how necessary and crucial sexual health education was to our youth. honestly was starting a reproductive well-being learning cohort and I figured that was my first step. — YOUTH

How has honestly impacted your life, your confidence, or your knowledge about sexual health?

Board Member said: honestly has shaped me into a fearless young woman. I know more about how to serve different communities better, public speaking, community outreach, and more. When I joined honestly I was a little freshman who had no idea what was going on, and now I am a senior who will be going off to pursue higher education. honestly has not just helped me become educated in our field of work, but also made me in a well-rounded woman.

Trainings offered:

• UNCONSCIOUS BIAS

This training helps participants recognize how implicit assumptions shape interactions and decision-making, offering strategies for creating more equitable and inclusive environments.
